LETTER FROM THE VICE-CHAIR

Dear Teammates:

Not long after another successful Induction Celebration last November, the closely knit hockey community mourned the loss of two of the game's most accomplished and respected individuals in Pat Quinn and Jean Beliveau. I have been privileged to get to know and work with these distinguished gentlemen throughout my life in hockey and like many others I was particularly heartened by the outstanding tributes that spoke volumes to their impact on our great sport.

Although Chair of the Board for little more than a year, Pat left his mark on the Hockey Hall of Fame, overseeing the recruitment of new members to the Selection Committee, initiating the first comprehensive selection process review which led to several by-law amendments, and establishing new and renewed partnerships. At its recent meeting to appoint a successor to the Chair, the Board of Directors expressed their appreciation for the many contributions that Pat Quinn made to the Hall including fifteen years as a member of the Selection Committee.

Coinciding with this edition of Teammates, I am very pleased to announce, on behalf of the Board of Directors, the appointment of Lanny McDonald as Chair of the Board effective July 1, 2015. The appointment is further acknowledgement of Lanny's leadership abilities and his success both on and off the ice which in the confidence of the Board will have a highly positive influence on the Hall's operations.

I would like to extend our thanks and best regards to all of our stakeholders "Teammates." We look forward to some exciting hockey during this year's playoffs and championships at all levels.

Sincerely,

Jim Gregory
Vice-Chair (Interim Chair)

HOCKEY HALL OF FAME ANNOUNCES NEW CHAIR OF THE BOARD

Honoured Member Lanny McDonald to assume Chair position on July 1, 2015

TORONTO (MARCH 25, 2015) – Jim Gregory, Vice-Chair of the Hockey Hall of Fame, announced today that one of hockey's most renowned team leaders, Lanny McDonald, will become the next Chair of the Board effective July 1, 2015. This appointment to fill the vacancy left by the untimely passing of Pat Quinn on November 23, 2014, was confirmed at the Board of Directors meeting held this morning in Toronto with the effective date to occur following McDonald's final meeting as a member of the Selection Committee in June.

Drafted fourth overall in 1973, McDonald enjoyed sixteen prolific seasons with the Toronto Maple Leafs, Colorado Rockies and Calgary Flames, retiring as a champion on the heels of the Flames' Stanley Cup victory in Special Olympics beginning in his NHL rookie season.

"As a perennial supporter since his induction in 1992 and a member of the Selection Committee for the past nine years, Lanny is familiar with the affairs of the Hockey Hall of Fame just as the hockey world remembers his achievements during his outstanding playing career," said Gregory. "While Lanny is highly recognized as an exceptional hockey player, he is also a dedicated family man, community benefactor, philanthropist and successful businessman whose leadership qualities will be a valuable asset to the Hall and its continued growth and development."

"I am thrilled and honoured for this opportunity to contribute at the Board level in support of the best sports hall of fame and museum in the world," said McDonald. "The Hockey Hall of Fame is a very special place to me, as it is to hockey fans of all ages, and having served on the Selection Committee under the stewardship of Jim Gregory, Bill Hay, Pat Quinn and John Davidson, I appreciate the tremendous effort that goes into this institution celebrated for honouring excellence in the game of hockey."

"WHILE LANNY IS HIGHLY RECOGNIZED AS AN EXCEPTIONAL HOCKEY PLAYER, HE IS ALSO A DEDICATED FAMILY MAN, COMMUNITY BENEFACTOR, PHILANTHROPIST AND SUCCESSFUL BUSINESSMAN WHOSE LEADERSHIP QUALITIES WILL BE A VALUABLE ASSET TO THE HALL AND ITS CONTINUED GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT."

1989. He remained with the Flames in a management capacity for several years and he also became involved with Hockey Canada contributing to Team Canada's 2001 World Championship entry and the 2002 gold medal-winning Olympic squad. Together with family business ventures in craft brewing and real estate development, McDonald has proudly supported many charities, in particular, through his long-time association with

TSN/RDS BROADCAST ZONE

The Hockey Hall of Fame has recently unveiled a series of new interactive experiences within the TSN/RDS Broadcast Zone, an area dedicated to providing an immersive, entertaining and educational first-hand look at television hockey broadcasting. Using state-of-the-art technology, guests can explore and experience the TV broadcast world from a variety of angles, both on and off the camera.

TSN/RDS BROADCAST PODS

In the updated TSN/RDS Broadcast Pods, overlooking the NHLPA Game Time model rink attraction, TSN guides James Duthie and Alain Crete help guests choose from a menu of classic hockey games and then put them behind the microphone to try their hand at calling the action. A wide selection of clips are available, from memorable NHL moments to classic international women's hockey. The Cisco GameCAM Video System records every broadcast so guests can immediately download and share their experience with family and friends via social media.

TSN TOP 10 CHALLENGE

At the new TSN Top 10 Challenge, guests are invited to watch and rank an assortment of 10 highlight segments, based on various pre-produced TSN Top 10 themed features, which run simultaneously on a tower grid of high-definition video wall displays. The users' results are then matched to the actual ratings determined by the hockey gurus at TSN.

TSN SPORTSCENTRE STUDIO

The most recent exhibit launch took place this past March Break with the unveiling of the new TSN SportsCentre Studio. TURN OF THE CENTURY

HHOF

During a lengthy career that saw him work for the famed Hockey Night in Canada broadcast, as well as write countless hockey books, Brian McFarlane collected a large number of items related to the history of the game. Most of the items included memorabilia and photography, but there were also a few key pieces that would catch people's attention. In semi-retirement, McFarlane created and ran the Brian McFarlane Hockey Museum. Originally located in Colborne, Ontario and later moved to Niagara Falls, Ontario, he sold much of the collection to the Municipality of Clarington in 2006. One of the oldest pieces in his collection, given to him by the Woltho Family from Cornwall, Ontario to display in his Museum, was a 1902 Stanley Cup goalie stick used by William "Billy" Nicholson of the Montreal 'AAA' Hockey Club. Montreal challenged the Cup-holding Winnipeg Victorias that March, and Nicholson allowed just two goals in three games, as they upset the champs to win the Stanley Cup. Needing a permanent and safe place for an important piece of hockey history, McFarlane donated the stick in 2014, and it now joins some late-1800 Winnipeg Victorias' sticks as the oldest Stanley Cup artifacts in our collection.

DYNASTY IN THE MAKING?

For the second time in three seasons, the Los Angeles Kings captured hockey's ultimate prize, hoisting the Stanley Cup in June 2014 after defeating the New York Rangers. Also for the second time, the Kings management, led by President of Business Operations and HHOF Honoured Member Luc Robitaille, continued the tradition of presenting the Hall of Fame with a championship ring for the collection. On-hand to present Curator Phil Pritchard with the ring were VP & HHOF Honoured Member Rob Blake, Head Coach Darryl Sutter, Captain Dustin Brown and Alternate Captain Anze Kopitar. The Tiffany & Co. ring measures 32mm across the face and features the LA Kings' shield comprised of 136 round diamonds amongst pave set black spinels. The top and bottom bezels surrounding the shield read 'STANLEY CUP CHAMPIONS.' The player's name and number are on one shank while an image of the Cup with the team's record is on the other. The 2014 series scores are included inside the ring.

MINOR PRO UNIQUENESS

The ECHL and the Hockey Hall of Fame have always had a great partnership that has grown over the years, with the Hall of Fame bringing its Outreach Program most recently to All-Star Games in Colorado and Florida, an Outdoor Game in Ohio and a Heritage Weekend in Alaska. The Hall of Fame prides itself on preserving all aspects of the game, including the minor pro game and its unique marketing. This year, a number of objects from the ECHL found their way to Toronto. In October, the Utah Grizzlies wore a head-to-toe Skeleton uniform as part of a special Halloween game. The pictures quickly made the rounds on social media and Patrick Wellar's jersey, pant shell and socks were donated by Grizzlies season ticket holders Dave and Deb Hersom, who purchased them at a charitable auction. Next up was the Batman vs. Riddler game hosted by the Toledo Walleye. Toledo, the home team good guys (Batman), took on the visiting Evansville Icemen (Riddler) wearing some of the most unique jerseys ever worn. One from each team was donated and, of course, Batman won again; 6-5. Next up was a record-setting performance by longtime ECHLer Sam Ftopek of the Kalamazoo Wings. On December 13, 2014, Ftopek played in his 790th career game to set the all-time record. After a brief delay at the border, his jersey, stick, helmet and gloves all found their way to the home of hockey history. Finally, a second stop in Toledo over Christmas saw the first-ever ECHL Outdoor Game take place versus the Kalamazoo Wings as part of Toledo Winterfest with the first-ever goal puck given to HHOF curators on the spot. Already a newsworthy year for the ECHL and the regular season isn't even complete!

JEAN BÉLIVEAU

Player Category

August 31, 1931 –
December 2, 2014

Jean Béliveau was revered as the quintessential class hockey player. He was a natural leader, both on and off the ice, that did everything with grace and pride. Nicknamed “le Gros Bill” after a popular French song of the day, Jean played on an incredible 10 Stanley Cup-winning teams as a member of the Montreal Canadiens, his sole NHL team.

He was an NHL All-Star 10 times and retired as the Canadiens all-time leading scorer as well as the league’s all-time playoff scorer.

Over his illustrious career, from 1950 and 1971, Béliveau played 1,125 regular season games, recording 507 goals, 712 assists and 1,219 points. He was twice awarded the Hart Memorial Trophy, in 1956 and 1964, as the league’s MVP, won the Art Ross Memorial Trophy in 1956 for leading the NHL in scoring, and was the inaugural recipient of the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP in 1965. Béliveau served as captain of the Canadiens for 10 seasons and remained with the club in an ambassadorial role until his passing.

Jean Béliveau was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame in the Player Category in 1972.

PAT QUINN

*Chair of the Hockey Hall of Fame
Board of Directors*

January 29, 1943 –
November 23, 2014

Pat Quinn excelled at all facets of the game. His playing career as a defenceman included a Memorial Cup championship and nine NHL seasons split between the Toronto Maple Leafs, Vancouver Canucks and Atlanta Flames, for whom he served as captain.

From behind the bench, Quinn coached 20 years in the NHL, reaching the playoffs 15 times and the Stanley Cup Final twice (Philadelphia Flyers in 1980 and Vancouver Canucks in 1994), and was twice awarded the Jack Adams Trophy as the league’s coach-of-the-year. Quinn’s international exploits were equally impressive as he guided Canada to gold medals at the 2002 Winter Olympics, the nation’s first Olympic gold medal in 50 years, the 2008 World U18 Championship and 2009 World Junior Championship, as well as a World Cup of Hockey title in 2004.

Pat Quinn served as a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame Selection Committee from 1998 to 2013 and was appointed Chair of the Hockey Hall of Fame’s Board of Directors on August 1, 2013.

Fondly remembered as a big man with an even bigger heart.
